

The Results Speak For Themselves...

It is the same Jesus in us, to do the same things He did, for the same purposes, to show the truth of the gospel, and that God is in us (John 14:12)! As stated before, all the rhetoric, hype, great preaching and eloquent arguments mean nothing, if there is nothing confirming, validating, or attesting to the power of God. We are not seeking signs, wonders, and miracles, but as Jesus said, "These signs shall follow those who believe..." If we are not getting results...More

...along the lines that Jesus said we would, then we need to re-evaluate what we believe and what we are doing. If someone else is getting results, then maybe I should at least examine what they are doing differently than what I've been doing. This makes perfect sense to us in just about any other vocation, sport, or political strategy; why not consider it in our Christian faith?

Some have argued that it is the devil, and deception, creating fear and distrust about faith healing, but if we'll keep the scriptures before us, we can clearly see that God used signs, wonders, and miracles to attest that He was with Jesus, and in Him (Acts. 2:22 & John 10:37 to name a few).

The gospels reveal that healing was meant to show God's compassion, God's forgiveness, to destroy the works of the devil, to overcome the curse, to show that nothing is impossible with God, and to show that Jesus is Lord... (See Booklet: Jesus Attitude Towards Sickness & Disease)

I can, with all sincerity, present these testimonies from our own experience (not to forget the multitude of other testimonies found in healing books and present day ministries). It must have been some six to nine months of presenting the truth about healing, deliverance, provision, protection, before we began to have testimonies from our congregation attesting and confirming the Word of God. The scriptures teach about seed, time, and harvest, and that is what is happening at Lord of Lords. We are not uniquely called or have some corner on God's market, but we have embraced what God has done in the atonement and act upon it as true.
